

THE GUIDE TO SURVIVING YOUR

LAYOVER

How Do You Survive Layovers?

If you travel to and from cities in Florida often, then you are aware that layovers in regional airports are a common occurrence when traveling by plane. If a layover is an hour, you have enough time to get from one plane to another or wait for your plane to take off again. However, it's those longer layovers, sometimes in the wee hours of the morning, that can leave you with time on your hands and nowhere to go. Airports are so spread out, that it can be difficult to find the best restaurant, a place for a nap or a charging station for your smartphone. This Layover Survival Guide is designed to help you find places to fill your time productively during airport layovers.

Atlanta

Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta
International Airport (ATL)

Don't forget to protect your home while you are away. Call Southern Oak Insurance for an estimate.

Food

The Atlanta airport has an excellent selection of food and drink options. There are many fast food stops for a quick and cheap meal. However, if you have time to sit down for something tasty or want to relax in a bar, you can choose from one of the more relaxing restaurants in any concourse or in the Atrium. These include: One Flew South (Concourse E), Paschal's Southern Cuisine (Concourse B), Varasano's (Concourse A), or Grindhouse Killer Burgers (Concourse D). For a complete list click here.

Shopping

Due to the massive size of the airport and the fact that it is a regional hub, the Atlanta airport has a wide variety of stores to browse. High-fashion choices such as Michael Kors, Pandora and SPANX as well as practical shops including Smarte Carte Luggage Cart, Drugs & More and several newsstands can make your time enjoyably. Visit the store listings for locations.

Places to plug-in

The Atlanta airport is a Wi-Fi Hotspot, therefore anyone with a mobile device or computer can access the Internet from any point (including the transportation mall under the concourses.) Plug-in services are available in lounges, gates and clubs.

Taking a nap

The best place to take a nap is in one of the Airline clubs like American Airlines Admirals Club (Concourse T), Delta Sky Club (Concourses A, B, C, D, E, F & T), United Club (T11), or The Club at ATL (concourse F). This last one is Hartsfield-Jackson's first common-use lounge. Day passes are available at (404) 382-2856 for $40.

Taking care of business

There are several airline lounges for doing business as well as the The Club at ATL that all travelers have access to for $40 a day. The club is located on Concourse E.

Bonus tips

There are three interfaith chapels located on Concourse E and F, and in the Atrium that are open for quiet contemplation. For information click here.

The Airport has a permanent and a rotating Art Program which showcases art throughout the concourses and in the Main Terminal.

Miami

Miami International
Airport (MIA)

Don't forget to protect your home while you are away. Call Southern Oak Insurance for an estimate.

Food

Miami Airport has a range of food choices from coffee and snacks to fine dining at the MIA's Hotel's Top of the Port restaurant. Other sit-down restaurants are the Budweiser Brew House (Terminal F, G, or H) and Clubhouse One (Terminal D). You can also try Lorena Garcia's Cocina (Concourse D) for Caribbean jerk chicken and shrimp ceviche. For a full list of options, click here.

Shopping

You can shop for everything from luxuries to books at the Miami Airport. The list of stores includes Coach, Boss and the Miami Heat store. You can also find a book or magazine to read on the plane or while you are waiting. Don't forget to buy souvenirs for family back home.

Places to plug-in

Travelers at MIA can now visit select travel related websites at no charge while in the airport through a new WiFi service at <http://airportwifi.com/MIA/>. All other internet use on MIA's network is available at a rate of $7.95 for 24 continuous hours or $4.95 for the first 30 minutes. Access is also available to subscribers of roaming partners including Bolingo, iPass and T-Mobile and their respective partners at no additional fee.

Taking a nap

There are several VIP clubs and lounges around the airport which feature comfortable resting places as well as the attached Airport Hotel for longer naps. Find a list of resting places here.

Taking care of business

Business is easily conducted at one of the many VIP Clubs or Lounges located all around MIA. They offer amenities such as full bars, free newspapers, magazines, fax services, copiers, paper shredders, computers, free WiFi, TVs, telephones and flight monitors.

Bonus tips

The MIA Galleries have rotating art exhibits in many locations to enrich the airport environment. A non-denominational chapel room is located in Terminal D, between international arrivals and carousel 22. MIA's Jetsetter Spa, in Terminal H, has services including manicures, pedicures, massages, and spray tanning. Terminal H holds the Yoga Room, open daily between 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. to all passengers. Located pre-security in Terminal H, 1st floor.

Charlotte

Charlotte Douglas
International Airport (CLT)

Don't forget to protect your home while you are away. Call Southern Oak Insurance for an estimate.

Food

For some delicious barbeque, take a peek at Brookwood Farms BBQ. If you like sushi, you may want to try Hissho Sushi, which is outside security in the Center Atrium. A list of all the restaurants can be found here.

Shopping

If you like to shop, you will find lots of choices inside Charlotte Airport. Stores are congregated in the Center Atrium and it is easy to go from shop to shop. If you are looking to pick up a gift while you are there, take a gander at Charlotte's Got A Lot, or Charlotte's Landing.

Places to plug-in

Charlotte Airport Free WiFi is available to passengers throughout the airport. Select the network "CLT Free WiFi" and follow the prompts that follow to access the complimentary WiFi.

Taking a nap

Charlotte Airport is known for their locally made (Trautman, NC) rocking chairs that are located in the Atrium. These are a great place for a snooze between flights or to watch planes take off and land.

Taking care of business

The Business Center at CLT is in the Main Terminal's Atrium and provides a quiet place to work, or simply to relax. It is equipped with workspace & computer rentals, faxing facilities & high-speed internet access; and offers shipping, administrative & notary services, office supplies, and audio/visual equipment & services for conference room rentals.

Bonus tips

Airport Volunteers welcome passengers, answer questions, and provide wayfinding assistance. They know how to help passengers get where they need to go by locating stores, restaurants and airline gates.
